A TUTTI FRUTTI UNO!

HOW TO PLAY:

- This game is played in teams of 2-6 players.
- 7 cards are distributed to each player.
- The rest of the cards are placed face down in a pack on the table. One is turned face up.
- The goal of the players is to get rid of all their cards.
- Players take turns and play.
- The first player can get rid of one card that is either the same fruit or vegetable or the same season.
- If he/she has nothing that matches that criteria, he/she has to take one card from the pack.

SPECIAL CARDS (balladeers/can be discarded at any time)

- Pesticide card: If the player gets rid of the Pesticide card, the next one has to pick 3 cards from the pack.
- Greenhouse card: If the player gets rid of the Greenhouse card, the next one has to pick 2 cards.
- All season card: If the player gets this card, he/she can use it as a balladeer.
- The Beneficial/good insect card: The player gets rid of one more card with it.

WHEN THE GAME
IS OVER,
THE WINNER
FACILITATES
A GROUP DISCUSSION:

- What was the function of the Pesticide card? Why?
- What was the function of the Greenhouse card? Why?
- What was the function of the Beneficial/Good insect card?
- Do you know any insects that are beneficial to the plants?
- Is there any real connection between the fruits and vegetables of the game and their correspondent season?
- Does it really matter if we eat all fruits and vegetables all year round?

A TUTTI FRUTTI GUESS WHO!

HOW TO PLAY:

- Use the same cards.
- Each player chooses a card (without looking at it) and holds it on his/her forehead (face out).
- Everyone else will try to explain to him/her which vegetable or fruit he/she is by answering questions such as:

“Which season do I belong to?”

“In which conditions do I grow?”

“What color am I?”

“What size am I?”

“How do I taste?”

And so on until everybody finds the right answer.

Game over!

POINTS FOR DISCUSSION

- What was easy and what was difficult in this game?
- Was it easy to answer the questions?
- Was it easy to ask questions?
- Do we know which fruit and vegetable grows in which season?
- Have we all tasted all of the fruits and vegetables of the game?
- Who has seen these fruits and vegetables in a garden or in a field? What season was it?
- Was the fruit ripe?
- Who likes gardening?
- Who would like to become a gardener?
