THE NO FOOD WASTE GAME

Today you were not very hungry. You have not eaten the whole of your snack. What are you going to do with the rest of it?

HOW TO PLAY:

- This game is played in teams of 5-6 players. Each team uses a complete No Food Waste Game pack.
- The garbage and recycling/composting cards are placed in the middle.
- The sachet with the snack cards is also placed in the middle.
- Each player takes a set of the 2 tompola cards (I treat my friends/ I keep it for later) showing options for the snack that was left uneaten.
- Players take turns picking (blindly) one snack card from the sachet. This is the snack they have left uneaten. They have to decide what to do with it and place the snack in the correspondent tompola card or discard it in the bins in the middle.
- The player who first fills all the squares of their tompola cards says bingo! He/she is the winner. Game over!

POINTS FOR DISCUSSION

- Were the winner's choices realistic?
- Do you always eat all of your snack and food?
- What could you do with the left overs?
- Who has shared his/her snack with a friend?
- Who has stopped somebody from throwing away food?
- Who has seen left overs in the bins of the school?
- Can you think of 4 reasons why it is not good to waste food?
- Does any of these reasons relate to the environment?
- Take a random snack card. How much sun, soil, rain, and human workforce is hidden in it?
- Look at the cards that are in the bins. Is there any pollution hidden there? Are there natural resources hidden there?
- Have you ever used a compost bin? What is it for? What kind of leftovers can we put in it?
